This is the first international peer-reviewed journal in Japanese philosophy. Interest in this area has been increasing worldwide for some time and now there will be a platform that can inform and enhance research, one that will benefit both those coming to this field with a background in other traditions and those primarily focused on it.

This annual journal is devoted to scholarly engagement with a wide variety of philosophical texts and discourse, and aims to demonstrate the relevance of Japanese philosophy for all fields of contemporary philosophizing. It welcomes academic papers on all time periods and all areas of Japanese philosophy, classical to contemporary, as well as interdisciplinary, cross-cultural, and comparative studies of philosophical traditions.

Junior scholars are particularly encouraged to submit their work, and journal editors aim to provide critical feedback as part of the development of Japanese philosophy.

The inaugural issue will include articles by noted scholars including:

Fujita Masakatsu, Kyoto University
John C. Maraldo, North Florida University
Rein Raud, University of Helsinki
Lin Shaoyang, City University of Hong Kong
Gereon Kopf, Luther College
